

ABSTRACT

A droplet ejecting apparatus and an ejection abnormality detecting/determining method are provided that, depending upon a capacitance change of an actuator after a droplet ejecting operation, measures the period of residual vibration on the vibration plate to thereby enable detection of an ejection abnormality and determination of a cause thereof.